Are Guernsey trade windows a good company?

Guernsey Trade Windows were thousands of pounds cheaper than other companies and an absolute pleasure to deal with, the office staff and the fitters were very efficient and the quality of work is second to none, we are absolutely delighted with our new Superlight tiled roof."

Who made Guernsey glass?

Guernsey Glass was owned and operated by Harold Bennett but only produced collectible glassware from 1967 through the late-1970s according to opensalts.net. Vaseline Glass Collectors Inc. reports that Mosser made Guernsey's later pieces. Pieces were made using old molds Bennett owned (some of them were first used by Cambridge Glass).
