

The resulting Kiribati Integrated Energy Roadmap (KIER) highlights key challenges and presents solutions to make Kiribati's entire energy sector cleaner and more cost effective. As a small, remote island state, Kiribati is highly dependent on imported energy supply.

developing areas. Energy self-sufficiency has been defined as total primary energy production divided by total primary energy supply. Energy trade includes all commodities in Chapter 27 of the Harmonised System (HS). Capacity utilisation is calculated as annual generation divided by year-end capacity x 8,760h/year. Avoided

The potential for this development of coconut oil as an alternative fuel for diesel, for both power generation and transport, is also a key element that requires further development for a truly sustainable energy supply for renewable and local sources, complementing the important role of solar PV and for Kiritimati - wind in the electricity sector.

Increasing the adoption of minimum energy performance standards and labelling (MEPSL) for lighting, refrigeration and air-conditioning as well as introducing electric vehicles for government ministries can be a viable solution for Kiribati to reduce the energy demand.

Kiribati: Many of us want an overview of how much energy our country consumes, where it comes from, and if we're making progress on decarbonizing our energy mix. This page provides the data for your chosen country across all of the key metrics on this topic.
